OVERVIEW

Hand-woven circular panel with cork banding and velvet & textured fabric inserts. A sumptuous round composition of interlocking colour fields—emerald greens, deep blues, royal purples, sanguine reds and warm golds—structured by hand-cut cork ribbons that trace a flowing map-like geometry. Mounted on a wide matte dark passe-partout, this is the collection's flagship piece: the most valuable and elaborately worked in the series. Handmade production: each work is developed from sketch to vertical loom and requires intensive hours of weaving, cutting and meticulous hand finishing.

DESCRIPTION

Orbital Mosaic is a large-scale study of colour, curvature and material juxtaposition. The circular format stages a mosaic of small, handwoven fragments—rich velvets, patterned brocades, and varied woven structures—interrupted and defined by cork bands that form sinuous paths across the surface. Velvet pieces provide moments of deep, soft sheen; patterned trims and jacquards introduce metallic threads and fine ornament; cork offers a dry, tactile counterpoint and graphic clarity. The result is a layered surface in which light and shadow shift with viewing angle, producing a dynamic interplay between softness and structure.

Presented visibly on a broad matte dark passe-partout, the work reads as a contemporary mandala or stitched landscape. The presentation emphasises artisanal details—hand-stitched joins, subtle colour gradations, cut edges and applied cork—that verify its manual making. Produced with carefully selected natural fibers and premium materials, this one-off is conceived as a museum-quality statement piece and the standout object within the collection.

CARE & WARRANTY

Dust regularly with a soft brush or low-suction vacuum using a textile nozzle.

Avoid prolonged direct sunlight, extreme heat and high humidity to preserve fibres, velvet pile and cork.

For stains, contact a professional textile conservator; do not attempt aggressive home cleaning.

Orbital Mosaic is conceived as the collection's pinnacle: an object of time-intensive making where luxury pile, patterned cloth and raw cork converge. Each fragment, seam and band records the maker's hand; the piece is intended to command space, invite contemplation and endure as a treasured work.
