OVERVIEW

Hand-sculpted carta d'argilla (paperclay) lamp. A tall, rectangular form with a highly textured, earthy brown finish features sweeping, organic cutouts. These large, elongated oval voids open the faces of the lamp, revealing the raw, tactile texture within and casting a warm, atmospheric glow when illuminated.

Made with 17 hours of artisanal labour

DESCRIPTION

A study in raw elegance and organic form, this sculptural lamp is entirely handcrafted from

carta d'argilla

(an innovative blend of paper and clay). The vertical, monolithic structure is defined by its tactile, rough-hewn surface, rendered in a warm, natural brown tone. This solid geometry is beautifully softened by large, graceful cutouts that span its faces, creating fluid, arching negative spaces and a compelling architectural tension.

When illuminated, the interior cavity is bathed in a warm, golden light that highlights the rugged, cave-like texture of the inner walls. The interplay of the grounded, earthy exterior and the luminous interior turns the piece into a dynamic focal point that transforms the atmosphere of a room. Whether turned on or off, it stands as a striking abstract sculpture.

Born from 17 hours of dedicated manual labor, the lamp's irregular edges and porous texture are deliberate, celebrated marks of the artisan's hand. It is ideal as an ambient light source on a sideboard, a bedside table, or as a commanding accent piece in a contemporary space that values raw materiality and bold design.

MATERIALS

Each piece is sculpted from carta d'argilla, a sophisticated, eco-conscious compound that fuses the delicate texture of paper pulp with the grounding, structural density of clay.

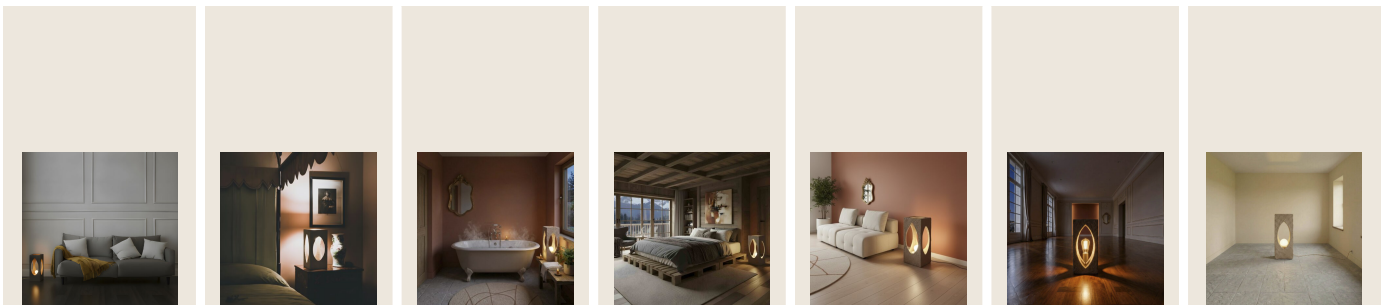

To ensure everyday durability and lasting structural integrity, the organic blend is stabilized with a high-quality resin. The result is a lightweight yet incredibly robust material with a rich, tactile, wabi-sabi surface that celebrates the slow, deliberate marks of human craftsmanship.
